Warrenton Horse Show This Week Will Be Graced by Falr Riders-Camping and House Parties-Items About People You Know.

A question which is disturbing the mind of the women of England right at this time which might be applied to this country is, what is to be done with the men of high distinction and every sort of eligibility who will not get married? Seeing that there are not enough of these important men it seems too bad to see so many of the most desirable men fighting shy of this share of a citizen's duty. Now, if they were women, they might be plqued into being married, for it could be plqued into being married, for it could be explained to them that they must be supposed to have lost all chance of getting married by the learning or the ability they have shown, then they would say to themselves "Go to! Let us show that we can marry if we desire." And such men as Lord Kitchener, Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, Mr. Balfour, Lord Milner, and several others would Lord Milner, and several others would cease to be among the bachelors. Would a tax meet the case, they wonder? In speaking of this subject Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews, of the University of Nebracks.

E. Benjamin Andrews, of the University of Nebraska, who is well known in this city, said in a lecture recently before the students of the Chicago University.

"Bachelors are moral degenerates. From them emanate most of the sin and them of the world. They are leaking. From them emanate most of the sin and shame of the world. They are lacking in mental and physical poise. The un-married individual of marriageable age has no place in society or in the scheme

'Hitherte 't has been supposed that there was a surplus of unmarried women in this country, but it is not so, there are husbands for all and to spare.

"Men must be punished. The right of courtesy must be taken from him. It is now woman's duty to assume the ini-tiative. Every unmarried woman should become a missionary to some poor de generate bachelor and urge him to de vote his attention to supporting a wife.
Are the women c. America alive to their responsibility

It may be safely said if this is their only way out of it for women to urge them to marry, the Virginia bachelors will be left to go on in their same old uts for many years to come.

The men say, when asked why they o not frequent summer resorts so much his summer or become married that the firls are not like they were, they do not his units the summer or become married that the firls are not like they were, they do not five up to the average man's ideal.

Mannerishness is a characteristic now often seen and is, without a doubt, a drawheel drawback.

Then there are many who are careless and indolent and take no interest beyond their own pursuits.

He is afraid she will, in after life, think only of herself and not of his comfort.

Then there are those cold girls, they may be clever and agreeable, e declares, but they are so haughty, have such a thrilling manner, they make one think they are "not worth winning." Neither are the shy girls beloved, they the usually awkward, as a consequence, and uninteresting. But the 'girl a man hates is the idealist, who believes a perfect man is waiting for her somewhere down life's birdneys and makes. down life's highway, and makes a prac-tice of snubbing a fellow as soon as she lecides he is not quite a paragon, and loes not even try and see him at his

It seems that if the young people of to-day are to settle the question that there must be a general shake-up and make over of both sexes and the chap erones at the different resorts in America and Europe hope that the time of the shake-up is not far distant.

Barnyard festivities seem to be all the seem to be all the same day this week on which the Gov-ernor and Mrs. Montague were given a hall with farm decorations at the Jordon Alum Springs.

Miss May Handy was entertained at a dinner with a miniature barn ward on the table by Mr. and Mrs. J. Clinch Smith at Newport. While at Afton "Ivy Hall" was the scene of a decidedly barnyard entertainment, the costumes being carried out in the country style; the men appearing in negligee shirts. Many ominent social lights of this city were Mrs. Sturesyvant Fish's "Colonial Ball," which came off at Newport Friday night, was so much talked of before the day arrived as to be laughingly classified as a current event. It was decidedly the thing in the social circles of America for the season, and the hostess was not dis appointed in her long-wished for arrival of the Duchess & Marlborough to grace the occasion. The was there, looking radiantly lively and as charming as ever, not having been a bit spoiled since making her home in England. Among the Richmond dancers were Miss May Handy and Mrs. Reginald Brooks, who even in that crowd of supubly dressed fashion ables, attracted a good deal of attention.

Another person whom the society reporters far and wide seem to have been interested in during the week is Bishop Potter, of New York, who sailed home from Europe on the same boat as the Duchess Ever since his arrival in New York his steps have been dogged, as it were till the time he reached his widow lady-love at her home on the Hudson, and then he was not left in peace, for they were clamoring for the date of his engagement. If he had been wise he would have given the reporters the slip at quarantine, or else left his New York residence in the dead of night.

Speaking of fellow passengers of the Duchess-Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson were among the number, both having returned from their tour abroad at that time. The beautiful "Irene" is said to be looking remarkably well and is as attractive as ever.

European travelers have not ceased for the season as yet, for Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jaffe, Miss Mary Ranson and Mr. J. Baldwin Ranson, all of Staunton, sailed last week for a short visit to Mr. Jaffe's home in Germany. Mr. Ranson and Miss Ranson will first stay some time in Paris and later will be stay some time in Paris and later will join the rest of the party at Cologne for a trip through Germany and Switzerland.

Hon, and Mrs. John Thompson Brown, of "Ivy Cliff." Bedford City, and their delightful house party have been camping near Rig Island, on the upper James. The ladies will again be prominent at a Virginia Horse Show, and in Warrenton this week the riders will include Mrs. Robert Shaw, of Boston; Mrs. Courtland Smith, Mrs. C. H. Kurkamp, Mrs. Frank Baker, Mrs. Blair Johnson, Mrs. J. K. Maddux, Mrs. F. A. B. Postman and the Misses Harny.

Mrs. Hobson and Miss Mayette Hobson, the mother and sister of Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, who have epent some time this summer at Virginia spent some time this summer at Virginia Beach and at the springs, are now visiting at Edge Hill, Montvale, Va.

Miss Hobson is a pretty blonde, of fair height, and is an excellent dancer. She dresses mostly in pink and white, all pink shades being very becoming. The upper part of her face is very much like that of her brother.

Miss Lucy Christian, the popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Christian, will go to Washington this winter to pursue her studies at a boarding school. It will be with regret that her school chums at Miss Jennie Ellett's give her up give her up.

Miss Florence Field has joined her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, at "Rockledge," their York Harbor summer home. Miss Field has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Gibson, in Chicago.

Miss Anne Sydner has as her guest Miss Lewis, of Philadelphia, and entertained Tucsday at her home on Grove Avenue, at an elegant little luncheon in her honor. The table was prettily decorated in cut flowers and covers were laid for eight.
